WILSON EXPLAINS FRANCE TREATY

SAYS HE WAS MOVED TO SIGN TREATY BY REASON OF TIES OF FRIENDSHIP.

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, July 29.—In a message sent to the senate with the Franco-American treaty, explaining its object, President Wilson said the treaty was to provide assistance for France in unprovoked German aggression without waiting for a council of the league of nations to advise, and explained that it was an agreement not independent of the league, but under it. President Wilson said he was moved to sign the treaty by ties of friendship between France and America and the assistance France gave in America's struggle for freedom.

By unanimous consent the treaty was laid before the senate in open session at the request of Chairman Lodge, of the foreign relations committee. At his suggestion it was later referred to the foreign relations committee without objections or discussion.

Ramsay's Child Chorus And Electrical Musical Extravaganza Great Feat

W. J. RAMSAY
The Nation's Foremost Chorist.

W. J. Ramsay, musical director of the Ham-Ramsay Revival Co., stated some time ago that the children's chorus program, which he stages once in every city where a revival is held, would be the greatest thing of the kind ever seen in Ada. Facetiously he remarked that it was the only thing of the kind in the world and that he was the only man in the world who could do it.

All three of his statements proved to be correct according to the testimony of those who witnessed the program at the big tabernacle last evening. The writer can truthfully testify that in all his experience he has never seen anything that could equal it in any respect.

The big choir apththeater was reserved and remained vacant until after the evangelist had delivered a brief sermon last evening, and just as he closed his remarks the long line of children, boys and girls, with girls predominating, began to file in and take their places on the platform.

There were 286 girls and 64 boys in the chorus. They had assembled at the Methodist church, and at the appointed time marched to the tabernacle under the direction of Mr. Ramsay. The line of march, two abreast, extended from the city hall to the Harris hotel.

Mr. Ramsay first called attention to the difficulty of keeping small children quiet when assembled together in large bodies, and to show the absolute discipline of the chorus he faced the audience, with the children to his back, and asked them to remain quiet for one minute. He held his watch and for one minute the entire chorus was as composed as if they were posing before the camera, and notwithstanding the fact that there was the greatest multitude of people present that has ever assembled in this city at any one time, you could almost have heard a pin drop on the floor of the choir platform.

The songs used were from the hymn book used at the tabernacle, the first being, "God Shall Wipe All Tears Away."

Other songs sung by the chorus were, "It's the Right Thing to do," written by Mr. Ramsay; "You Will Outshine the Sun"; "Keep in Step With Jesus"; "Swing Song"; "If We All Stand True"; "Count on Me"; "Will Your Heart Ring True?"; "We Will Talk It Over Together By and By"; "Rock of Ages."

In practically all of the songs gestures were used to make the words more forcible and not once was there an awkward move on the part of a single child in the chorus, which showed the effect of most diligent and industrious training.

The lighting equipment had been arranged with switches in easy reach of the director and the globes were red, blue and green making it possible to give a most wonderful effect to the various tableau and pantomime scenes which were interspersed throughout the program.

In the fourth song, "Keep in Step With Jesus," the children whistled the chorus, and then hummed it, doing it with the ease and perfection of a trained chorus of the stage.

When the "Swing Song" was sung Mr. Ramsay asked for the loan of a baby, and some lady presented a bouncing baby boy only four months old. The baby was placed in a swing with a safety seat just over the pulpit and during the song swung to and fro. With the electrical effects to enhance it the scene was most striking, and the little fat youngster in the swing seemed to enjoy it better than any one.

"At the Battle's Front" was one of the most impressive numbers on the program. While singing this song the chorus marked time, and with the eyes closed you could hear the tread of an army passing a given point, the tread becoming fainter and fainter as they disappeared into the distance, finally passing beyond earshot.

In the prohibition song, "Count On Me," a part of the chorus left the platform in single file and in perfect order and completely circled the tabernacle carrying the American flag at the head and at the end of the procession.

In the song, "Will Your Heart Ring True?" there is a line in the chorus with the question, "When the clapper strikes the gong will your heart ring true?" At this time the chorus was provided with small bells, and when this sentence was reached in the song, the bells were used with powerful effect.

What Mr. Ramsay termed a picture of Heaven was a most solemn and impressive scene. The big cross in the center of the chorus rostrum was lighted blood red and all other lights extinguished. It was, indeed, a picture of Heaven if such a picture could be imagined.

"Rock of Ages" was sung with Miss Ramsay clinging to the lighted cross and holding the hand of little Martha Elizabeth Ham who stood at the foot of the cross. During the song the children of the chorus all knelt and the audience joined in the singing. Miss Ramsay was clad in white and draped with the American flag, making a most wonderful and impressive picture.

The program's patriotic finale was the most impressive we have ever witnessed. Miss Ramsay stood at the front in patriotic draperies as the Goddess of Liberty, wearing an electrically lighted crown. A part of the chorus, with crowns of silver effect, were brought to the

FERCE FIGHTING SPREADS TO ALL PARTS OF CITY AND OFFICIALS SEEM TO BE HELPLESS.

By the Associated Press
CHICAGO, July 30.—Bitter fighting between whites and blacks spread last night and early today to all parts of the city, with officials still refusing to call on state troops for aid.

With the arrival today of two more regiments, eight thousand well armed men were resting at arms ready to quell the rioting. No explanation was forthcoming from either city or state officials as to why the list of dead had been permitted to reach twenty-six, with nearly a thousand suffering injuries.

On the north side the fighting proceeded for several hours and in the residential districts of Woodlawn and Englewood, on the far south side, fierce guerilla warfare took place.

States Attorney Hoyne announced that the August grand jury would investigate the race riots and attempt to fix the responsibility for the outbreaks.

Adjutant General Dickson, after making a tour of the danger zone, reported the situation much improved compared with yesterday. He said that almost as serious a situation was confronting the police in the stockyards districts. Berger Odman, white, was shot in the abdomen last night and died this morning.

Four Million Are Destitute In Old Poland

By the Associated Press
WARSAW, Poland, (By Mail).—It is estimated that there are 4,000,000 destitute persons in Poland, including 2,000,000 mothers and children. For five years the struggling armies of Russia and the Central Powers swept back and forth over the country. Thousands of houses and buildings were destroyed.

Now that peace has settled upon the rest of the world, Poland is still engaged in frontier warfare. From the Baltic to the Carpathians, on a front three times the length of the former western one, the Poles are mobilized. Even women and girls are performing military service not as their French and American sisters were in hospitals and ambulances, but on the firing line with rifles in their hands.

Despite these conditions, the new Polish government is making a determined effort to care for its civilians, with the assistance of allied relief agencies. The American Red Cross have already sent to Poland a dozen trainloads of supplies clothing, medicines, and children's food. What this has meant to the new republic is summed up in the statement of the Polish government official who told the Red Cross workers:

"You are saving a race which has struggled for independence for hundreds of years, and are winning their everlasting gratitude and friendship."

MURDERED HIS MOTHER; ESCAPES AND SUICIDES

KELLERTON, Ia., July 30.—Roy Emerson of Creston, Iowa, recently convicted of murdering his mother, early today escaped the guards taking him to Mount Airy jail, and suicided by hanging himself under the highway bridge nearby, using his coat for a rope.

No Concord Between the Church and the World Sermon on "Separation"

REV. M. F. HAM
America's Greatest Evangelist.

This morning at a few minutes before ten when Prof. Ramsay walked under the Tabernacle, shouts of "Three Cheers for Ramsay" were heard and a lusty cheer went up from every part of the audience. The people evidently remembered the wonderful achievement of the chorus program of Tuesday evening so masterfully presented by the young people trained by this gifted song-leading evangelist.

The preacher, Rev. Ham, read several verses of Scripture concerning sowing two kinds of seed, plowing an ox and an ass together, and wearing mixed cloth. His sermon was very searching and we give brief extracts below.

This is the most unpopular and unpleasant message I shall have to bring to you in this campaign. My text instructs you not to be unequally yoked together, to come out from among the worldly, to live a life of separateness. Separation is my theme.

Listen as I read these verses. They tell the condition I must warn you against. This is not scripture, but it is just as true:

The Church and the World.

The Church and the World walked far apart on the changing shore of time.

And the World was singing a giddy song and the Church a hymn sublime.

"Come give me your hand," said the merry World, "and walk this way with me."

But the good church held her snowy hand and solemnly answered nay. "I will not give my hand at all and I will not walk with you. Your way is the way to endless death and your words are all untrue."

Half shyly the Church approached the World and gave Him her hand of snow;

The old World grasped it and walked along, saying in accents low:

"Your dress is too simple to please my taste, I will give you pearls to wear."

Rich velvets and silks for your graceful form, and diamonds for your hair."

The Church looked down at her plain white robe and then at the dazzling world.

And blushed as she saw his handsome lip with a smile contemptuous curled.

"I will change my dress for a costlier one," said the Church with a smile of grace.

Then her pure white garments drifted away and the world give in their place a blessing.

Beautiful satins and shining silks and roses and gems and pearls.

And over her forehead her bright hair fell curled in a thousand curls.

The angels drew near the Mercy Seat and whispered in sighs her name.

The saints their anthems of rapture hushed and covered their heads with shame.

And a voice came down through the hush of heaven from Him who sat on the throne—

"I know thy work, and how thou hast said I am rich and hast not known that thou art naked and poor and blind, and wretched before my face; Therefore from my presence I cast thee out and blot thy name from my face."

When God wanted a people to represent Him, He told them they must separate themselves from other peoples.

God can not use any man as long as he is a companion of any man who is opposed to God's plans.

It is not God's fault that your town hasn't been blessed. As long as you will support men and measures that antagonize this meeting you can not expect a blessing.

You are in the world but God will not accept your service if you are yoked up with the world. He will not even accept your service if your children are cursed.

A lot of you folks act as if God was just a big jellyfish or a bunch of mush. I tell you He is tired of this slipshod hit and miss style of worship that the average church espouses today.

God will not accept the service of any man who is bag-throated and tied to the business of this world.

Whenever you get tied up with an organization that is unfriendly to Christ you are liable to be compromised.

It is not the mission of the church in this world to provide pleasure for people, neither can you keep any amusement innocent that is in the hands of an unbeliever.

You are to have absolutely no union with unbelievers. No man ever married an unbeliever who did not destroy his capacity for usefulness in the Lord's work.

A strong Christian must abstain from all wine. No Christian should rejoice in anything save the Lord. If he does he only sows evil for himself. The only sure joy is in the Lord. The only person who is sure of always rejoicing is he that joys in the Lord.

TREATY GUARDED BY THE SENATE

PRECAUTIONS WILL CONTINUE UNTIL DOCUMENT LANDS IN STATE DEPARTMENT'S STRONG VAULT.

By News' Special Service
WASHINGTON, July 30.—Unusual steps to guard the official text of the French treaty submitted to the senate yesterday are being taken pending final action upon the document by that body. These precautions will continue until the document is finally deposited in the state department vaults, according to Secretary Sanderson, of the senate. The senate was not in session today.

FRANCE TO WAIT ON ACTION HERE

WILL NOT RATIFY GERMAN TREATY UNTIL WE RATIFY THE TREATY WITH HER.

By the Associated Press
PARIS, July 30.—Disposition to delay final action on the ratification of the German treaty until the United States senate acts on the proposed Franco-American military treaty was indicated today by those in touch with the situation.

Former Premier Viviano, chairman of the Chamber of Deputies peace treaty committee, expressed the opinion that the execution of the treaty would be completed in time for discussion on August 11th. The debate probably will take three weeks, and the vote might be taken by the end of August unless action is delayed as suggested.

Ham Boiled Down

"If I were going to be a liar I would be a good one, I wouldn't be a little two by four."

"Our standards have gotten so low today that it is almost impossible for us to feel conviction for any sin."

"There isn't any better indictment against a man than the fact that he is afraid to participate in a religious revival."

"There are some people who will not go to the meetings because the meetings have made some demands which they are unwilling to meet."

"The evangelist blasts the stone out of the quarry, the pastor breaks off the rough corners and the teacher polishes it and fits it for the builder's use."

"You refuse to come to this tabernacle because you say that I am personal. I am personal simply because I happened to ring your number, that's all."

"I can't walk down the street without encountering crowds of frivolous, foolish, silly young heathens whose ambitions are no higher than the length of a woman's skirt."

"You card playing, dancing hypocrites have sold Jesus for much less than Judas got for him. You are lower down than Judas. In fact when some of you get to hell you will have to get an airship to get the bottom of it."

"If I could preach a sermon in hell I could depopulate it in less time than I have been engaged in this sermon tonight. When you have been in hell a while you would give all you ever possessed to have the opportunity of the gospel just one more time."

Charity isn't the only thing that should begin at home.

Finally a butterfly of plain georgette is the last beguiling touch that is sure to tempt feminine eyes into looking too long at a garment that is bound to prove irresistible. While georgette has proved much less fragile than it looks, underwear made of it is a luxury that the average woman will hardly indulge in. But crepe de chine has wearing qualities that make it really economical.

An envelop chemise and a combination, both of American design and manufacture, are shown in the picture above. Flesh pink crepe de chine makes the practical chemise shown at the left, trimmed with insertion and edging of the familiar val lace that women love. A small yoke of Irish lace is set in at the front. Pink satin straps with bows suspend the chemise from the shoulders and the same ribbon makes a dignified bow with hanging loops and ends to embellish the front. This garment is delightfully cool for warm weather when the lightest union suit proves burdensome. A short undervest and corset are worn under it.

Mandamus Suit to Make
City "Dads" Give It News

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 30.—A petition for a writ of mandamus to compel J. C. Walton, mayor of Oklahoma City and police officials under him lift the ban on Daily Oklahoma Times republishing the documents in all of the city is claimed.

On July 25 permission to search the police records was denied a reporter for the Times. That time the refusal was held to be repeated several times.

Being of the nature of a writ of mandamus, the petition is not subject to the usual rules of procedure in civil cases.

afternoon. The petition was the outcome of the order posted on July 10 by Mayor Walton at the police station stipulating that no one could be arrested if the two papers was to be kept out of the building "unless under arrest" and instructing all members of the police force not to discuss any matters whatever with these representatives and not to be caught "conversing with them." The punishment for the offense was not set forth.

The edict on speech disappeared later and was supplanted by a "no loafing" sign. However, under the orders from the mayor, all records have been withheld from reporters of the two papers and no information extended other than occasional invitations, crudely framed to reporters to leave the building.

The petition is directed also at Jerry Smith, chief of police, and the three police sergeants, James Montgomery, L. E. Read, and M. L. Withington. The sergeants have charge of the records.

It is maintained in the petition that the representatives of the newspapers have the right to obtain information from the public records for the purpose of informing the public and ascertaining whether public officers have and are properly administering public affairs. FORT SILL, July 28.—The total enlistments at this post are 848.

Ft. Sill "Emergency" officers are rapidly being discharged, "Their services being no longer required."

Hereafter, no men enlisted for the emergency will be detailed for duty as assistant instructors at educational institutions maintaining units of the R. O. T. C.

It is desired to enlist 15 men as telegraph operators for service with the A. E. F. in Siberia. Enlistment is for three years. Further particulars at any recruiting office.

The social life of the Post was made brighter by two especially delightful events this week. They were: a party given by the young ladies employed here and an officers' dance at the New Post by the 14th Field Artillery Regiment.

Last week this letter stated that the hospitality House club service in Lawton for enlisted men had been discontinued. This is a mistake and this work will be carried on with more effort to entertain than usual.

Silver buttons for men who served and were wounded in the late war are now available at the recruiting offices. Bronze for those not wounded will be available later. Bring your discharge when you apply for one.

Silver buttons for men who served in the military will go from Ft. Sill to El Reno to see "Steady" Steedman go into the mill with "Young" Fitzsimmons of Oklahoma City, Friday night, Aug 1st. They will either travel by special train or automobile service.

Roy C. Loveridge, Post Boxing Instructor, has just signed articles whereby his proteage, "Steady" Steedman, of the 9th Field, and who is middle weight champion of the southwest will box "Young"

Fitzsimmons of Oklahoma City at El Reno August 1st.

Beginning this week students who have enrolled at the Khaki College will be allowed to do their work in the day time. From 1:30 to 4:30 each afternoon, they will be excused from the military duties. This is the beginning of

The principle recruiting offices in the state are located at: Altus, Ardmore, Bartlesville, Chickasha, Clinton, Enid, Hugo, McAlester, Miami, Shawnee, Tulsa, Muskogee, Woodward. Besides these stations parties are sent out to surrounding towns at various intervals.

Leonard C. Mason, of Chickasha, had a ride in an aeroplane 30 minutes after he enlisted there. He was brought to Ft. Sill via the air route. As usual, he was given a suitable initiation after the plane ascended. The pilot executed a pair of loop-the-loop and nose dives after he had sufficient altitude.

"Steady" Steedman has just returned from a recruiting trip where he has been demonstrating the manly art of self-defense with his manly Roy C. Lovridge, and his sparring partner, John Clark of the 9th Field. They appeared all thru Kansas and Oklahoma, the last two stops being Wellington, Kansas and Chickasha, Oklahoma. Camp Doniphan is now occupied by an army of stately sniffer sentinels, who stand guard day and night. No kicks have been received at the "Tops" tent about their being called for guard duty before their notice. Neither is there any noticeable dissatisfaction among the new sentries about not getting on the last detail for over-service.

If you don't think there are any "Women Folks" around Ft. Sill, drop in any noon at the hostess house at the end of the street car line and see the big dining room full of beautiful young ladies eating lunch. They are young ladies who are employed as stenographers from all parts of the United States etc., in various department, at the local post. Said lunch is being served at cost to them.

Reports from the Fort Sill recruiting parties now covering Oklahoma show that vigorous work is being done. The oil boom and the big harvest is delaying the enlistments to some extent, but good seed is being sowed, which will sprout a little later, when the young men of Oklahoma will be thinking of the opening of the school year especially with limited funds for education.

Some functions of recruiting parties are: Help organize ball teams, furnish information, first hand, about all branches of the service U. S. Army, do everything possible to assist public spirit, show a willingness to make the New Army understood and appreciated. To furnish flags for deceased soldiers, sailors and marines, in fact that they are the connecting factors between the Army and the public.

A new class for moving picture operators, mechanical drawing, and expression and public speaking were started this week at the Khaki College. Twenty-one have enrolled for expression.

THE CUPID CLOCK

By AGNES G. BROGAN.

Nan went out of the way in order to pass again the shop where the clock was displayed. The clock had fascinated her from the moment that she had first seen it in the jeweler's window—a cleverly fashioned bit of mechanism, the face of the Cupid whose arm encircled it worthy the study of an artist.

Nan had many fancies about the little clock. She liked to picture it in the center of her plain mantelpiece, where the alarm clock now stood.

The clock was expensive. Nan thought, when she stepped into the small store to price it. An interested young man noted the wistful note in her voice as she questioned him as to the possibility of the clock being promptly sold.

"You see," she added, "I want to buy it myself a little later."

The young man understood the significance of "a little later."

"We issue charge accounts," he suggested.

Nan blushed. "I'd rather wait," she answered frankly, "until I have the cash price."

The man gazing unaware into Nan's clear eyes was pretty certain that the clock would be in stock for some time.

"They go to the bigger places as a rule for that sort of thing," he told Nan.

She pointed out that no bigger place could possibly offer a clock with that particular Cupid's expression.

"He seems to be laughing right at one," she said.

The young man had noted the challenging smile.

"The little fellow seems cocksure of himself," he said, and he also smiled—at Nan.

When she was gone he removed the clock from the show window and placed it in a deep drawer.

Nan, entering the store breathlessly next evening, wanted to know if it had been sold.

The young man eagerly reassured her.

"If customers don't see it," he explained, "another clock will do as well. I am keeping it for you."

Nan was grateful, her eyes told him so. And the proprietor of the small shop stood, after she had departed, watching her trim figure out of sight down the street.

"Saw a little clock in your window," a collector of curios began, when the young man briskly interrupted.

"Sold," he said.

It was radiant Nan who came glowing in out of a dismal shower to place her complete savings on the shop counter.

"I want my clock," she triumphantly demanded.

The proprietor was as pleased over the sale as herself.

"You had better bring it in during the next few days," he admonished her, "to let me see how it is running. We like to keep them regulated at first."

Nan obediently brought the clock in. It was keeping good time with Cupid still silently jubilant.

The young man himself was not so jubilant. It would be an unreasonable thing to ask his fair customer to return again with so well-behaved a clock, also a suggestion to see her again would be under the circumstances unwarrantable.

The wistful note which had been in Nan's voice as she asked the price of the clock was in the young man's as he bade her goodbye.

"Fool," he told himself, "Why didn't you offer to carry the thing home to her?"

Nan laughed at the Cupid on her no longer unadorned mantel.

"You dear!" she said, "you make me believe every time I look at you that something delightful is going to happen. You're hypnotizing me, so that I start out singing in my heart every day."

But if Nan started out singing she returned at evening wearily and with an unaccountable disappointment where the song had been.

She had not passed the shop once, though she had often wished to do so. Common sense asked her why she should go out of her way and to what purpose? And Nan could only bow to common sense and take the short and prudent way homeward.

On a certain evening of depression Nan saw as she glanced at the clock that its hands were still at the hour when she had left in the morning—the hour also to which the roguish Cupid pointed—and the hands refused to be moved.

Her depression vanished inexplicably as she wrapped the clock, pausing to look appraisingly in the mirror. The jewelry shop was still open when she reached it, the young proprietor gazed up at her entrance wide-eyed. He seemed to have difficulty in speaking.

"I—I was not expecting to see you," he explained.

Silently Nan handed over the clock. Then all at once, in fear of losing her again perhaps, or in desperate confidence, he leaned toward Nan.

"We will fix the clock later," he said. "The little fellow's idea appears to be to emphasize the hour of eight. Won't you waive ceremony, please, and let me walk home with you now—at that hour?"

To Nan's astonishment she replied that she would. That was the beginning. Their wedding ceremony later was also set for the hour of eight.

TEACHING TRADE IS POORLY PAID

EDUCATORS GET LESS WAGE THAN BRICKLAYERS THESE DAYS—BUT CONDITIONS IMPROVE.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 30.—The common laborer today is drawing down more real honest-to-goodness coin in his weekly pay envelope than any of the "higher-ups."

With his 50 cents an hour, the man who shovels dirt, or does any of the numerous like tasks coming under the head of "common labor," can afford to take the misuses and the kiddies to the picture show every Saturday evening and have enough left over, after paying the grocer to buy ice cream sodas around and add the war tax.

He is only $552 behind the heads of school departments, when the year rolls round, and is far ahead of ordinary teachers.

There should be no rush for teacher's positions considering that for nine and a half months' work the salary paid ranges from $760 for inexperienced workers, to $1800 for department heads. These figures include recent salary increases.

Look at the Bricklayers.
The man who lays bricks for a living or plasters your home are both receiving $9 a day for eight hours. Their yearly salary would amount to $2808. Carpenters are not quite so well paid, receiving only $7.40 for the day's labor, or $2308.80 yearly.

Engineers on construction jobs running gasoline engines make $6 a day.

Same True at Dallas.

Dallas, Tex., July 29.—Carpenters plumb, bricklayers and plasterers have larger yearly incomes than teachers in Dallas schools, and this despite the fact that high school teachers have received salary increases averaging 41 per cent and grade school teachers 33 1-3 per cent, according to figures gathered here.

High school teachers, under contract for the coming year will receive a maximum of $1300 and a minimum of $886.

The same wage scale applies to both negro and white teachers.

St. Louis Raises Pay.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 29.—Education is getting faddy.

The price has gone up. Board of education officials here said today teachers in all branches had received raises amounting to nearly 20 per cent since July, 1917. The increase in July two years ago was 13 per cent. Other schools have also increased, they said.

Teachers here obtained raises through voluntary action of the school board.

Lift Ban in Illinois.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 29.—Defeated time and again, never disheartened, Illinois school teachers saw their fondest hopes realized when the last session of the general assembly enacted a law placing in the hands of boards of education of the school district the power to raise the tax rates for the purpose of granting salary increases to teachers.

COOPER AND COX DISSOLVE PARTNERSHIP

Mr. Fred Cox of the Cooper-Cox Motor company, has purchased the interest of Mr. Cooper in the business. The change took place this week.

Mr. Cox is one of the best known and most generally liked young business men in the city. He has been here for the past fifteen years with the exception of eighteen months he spent in the service. He will give his personal attention to the needs of his garage customers and with the expert workmen he employs is certain to enjoy one of the best patronages in the city. Mrs. Cox will have charge of the office work of the business.

Mr. Cooper will continue to be the agent for the cars the firm has handled and he will keep his cars in the Cox garage.

The Covenanter Letters

Being a Discussion of the Covenant of the League of Nations by Eminent Men.

Today's Letter Takes Up.

ARTICLES XXII-XXV

Until this point the provisions of the Covenant have dealt almost exclusively with the organization of the League and the prevention of war. Article XXII and the three that follow are concerned with improving conditions in which the people of many countries take, or ought to take, an interest.

German Colonies.

The first of these articles deals with races hitherto ruled by Germany and her allies and not yet qualified to govern themselves. Its object is two-fold. 1st to protect and assist peoples on their way to complete independence; to guard them from dangers, and guide them while still inexperienced in the use of popular government. During that period they would be likely to make mistakes which might expose them to external and internal perils. The second object is to prevent selfish exploitation of backward peoples and natural resources. These colonies were won by all the nations that helped to win the war, and all have a right and duty to demand that the native inhabitants shall not be maltreated, and that one of the victors shall not monopolize to the exclusion of other countries any raw products essential to the industries of the world.

These things are properly placed under the control of the League; and if so the plan mandatories acting under contract with the League and rendering an annual report of their stewardship to the Council, with a permanent commission to supervise the administration, seems well devised for the purpose. No nation need accept a mandate unless it pleases, but if it does so it accepts the trust under the conditions prescribed by the League. The whole plan marks a great step forward in the recognition of the common responsibility of civilized nations for the weaker peoples of the earth; in contrast with the principle of exploitation for the national benefit of those who can succeed in conquering and owning them or who can by purchase, bargain or force of arms obtain a transfer of them from their former masters. To establish the principle, to provide for inspection and publicity is a long advance, and may be expected to have its effect upon the government of all native races whether under the control of the League or not.

International Responsibilities.

Article XXIII carries the conception of responsibility, instead of exploitation, still farther, applying it to the conditions of labor, and treatment of all native races, the white slave trade, the traffic in opium and other dangerous drugs, the trade in arms in disorderly regions, fair commercial opportunity and the prevention of disease. Everyone familiar with the difficulty of regulating these things properly under the pressure of competition will appreciate the importance of concerted action. In such matters the work of the League must be consultative and advisory, because over the legislation and administration of its members in their own countries it has no control. But the members themselves covenant to do these things, and in the case of labor to endeavor to maintain fair and humane conditions not only in their own country, but also in all others to which their commercial and industrial relations extend. They agree further to maintain for that purpose the necessary international organizations. The publicity which will result cannot fail to be of great value, and the total effect may be expected to be large and highly beneficial.

Matters of Common Interest.

Article XXIV deals with international bureaus for the administration of matters of common interest. Few persons have any conception how many of these exist. The best known is the Universal Postal Union but there are many others relating to telegraphs, wireless, agriculture, railroads, river navigation, industrial and literary property, sanitation, crime, scientific subjects, and other things. Some of them include all civilized countries, some only those neighbors directly concerned. There are also a number of commissions of various kinds. These were in existence before 1914 and the war has brought in among the Allies many more to unify the conduct of military action, and the vast auxiliary supply services connected therewith. Some of these will be useful in peace as well as in war and will survive.

Hitherto the different bureaus have been independent of one another; but it is obviously better administration to place them under one supervising authority, where information about them can be readily collected, so that the Council and Assembly can discuss them, bring grievances to light demand explanations and correct abuses. This is the object of Article XXIV.

The work done by the members of one organization in the war has been so great that it seemed possible to make a larger use of it for the relief of suffering in time of peace. Both as a recognition of its services and with a view to further work, the members of the League agree by Article XXV to promote the establishment and cooperation of national voluntary organizations of the Red Cross.

A few News subscribers persist in paying the carrier boys for their subscriptions. That is not the way we handle our business. The Great Force

In the world-wide fusion of democratic peoples no force will be greater or will play a more magnificent part than music. It is the one universal language; its appeal is made at once to the savant and the savage.

If you have in your home

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

the whole realm of music will be at your disposal. Through the magic of its harmonies you will feel the emotions that have inspired all those races whose aspirations, before so different from ours, now must be the same. It will help you to understand them—and them to understand you.

Under music's spell autocracy cannot exist, for music is democratic to the very core of its being. It levels social barriers and is today more indispensable than ever—both original and Re-CREATED.

SALVAGE WORK IS VERY DANGEROUS

CREWS FACE DEATH IN GREAT NUMBER OF WAYS TRYING TO SAVE SUNKEN SHIPS.

By the Associated Press

LONDON, (By Mail).—Salvage crews face death in many ways trying to save the vessels sunk in the war by German submarines. One of the most perilous incidents of this service was that of a navy commander who cut away the nose of a live torpedo that had become jammed in the deck of a destroyer. So dangerous was the task that the naval authorities towed the destroyer three miles out to sea before they would permit the attempt.

This salvage work has advanced very rapidly and become very profitable. Submersible lifting devices never before thought of have been devised and put into successful operation. Dangers from gases due to decaying grain cargoes have been eliminated by scientific research. Diving appliances have been greatly improved.

The cutting of steel plates under water is now only a detail and the construction of the standard batch cover holes in hulls has reached the point where it is now merely a part of a day's work for the salvage men.

It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and always the inflammation which causes practically all stomach liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. MAKE THE PENNIES BIGGER

When James Buchanan was president and tall beaver hats were in vogue; when gentlemen wore broad cravats and ladies wore hoop skirts the pennies they tossed to children were as big as quarters. But the cart-wheel coppers your grandfather got for keeping his lace collar clean were not as big in buying power as the pennies of today.

A penny then might buy a pastry, or ten of them take one to the Fair, but your great-aunt and great uncle couldn't have gone to a movie at any price.

Your great-gran'ther may have driven the fastest horse in the country and paid a tidy sum for it. But the price of a stable of thoroughbreds would not have bought him a flivver.

Sixty years ago the ladies could go shopping for dry goods and buy silks that would make you green with envy, linens that were linens and broadcloths that beggar description. But what their favorite store did not have they usually got along without.

You can pick up your daily newspaper and in fifteen minutes you can know what the different shops are offering in fabrics, patterns, varieties and qualities that great-grandmother never dreamed could be gathered together under any conditions.

Times have changed, and so have merchandise and business methods. One of the influences that has helped to bring about so much of change, that has helped to multiply opportunities and increased the spending size of our pennies is advertising.

Every merchant, every manufacturer knows that advertising materially reduces selling costs by increasing the demand for and the distribution of the products of hundreds of thousands of mills. Indeed many of the things we count today as necessities or simple luxuries could not be made and sold at their reasonable prices except as advertising has created a broad market for them, making millions of sales at little prices and little profits.

And so you owe very much to advertising. You owe much to the people of yesterday who have read and been influenced by past advertising and so have made possible the economies and varieties and wide distribution of merchandise that you enjoy.

You owe present advertising a thorough reading. A greater familiarity with advertising, with advertisers and advertised merchandise makes continually for the increasing size of your pennies.

Telephone No. 4.

DOES OUR COUNTRY REALIZE DANGER.

The Kenyon bill now before the senate committee on agriculture and forestry, will, if it becomes a law, establish in practical effect, government operation of meat packing industry of United States.

And right here is where the American people should become interested. Political control of food supplies will do one of two things; it will cater to the farming element for their vote and the bait used will be politically increased prices for live stock which the consumer will pay. Or if the city dwellers' vote looks best, political control will favor decreased prices at expense of agricultural districts.

It is a hundred to one shot, however, that whichever course is pursued, political interference with industry and the law of supply and demand, will increase instead of decrease the cost of any commodity. We have sufficient proof of this statement in the United States today to justify the belief that political interference with the packing industry would be no exception to the rule.

The proposed bill presents an unprecedented situation in legislation affecting American business in peace times. It gives one man, the Secretary of Agriculture, autocratic power to make or break a private business. It makes every packer liable to lose his license by reason of an act of omission of one of his employees without any default of his own or the responsible heads of the business. It limits the free right of appeal to the courts, which is inherent in every American citizen.

If this bill which practically provides for government of the packing-houses, stockyards, dealers in dairy products and poultry becomes a law, it is the opening wedge for government operation and ownership of every basic industry in the United States, thus committing us to paternalism and socialism, from which there may be no turning back.

We have just helped free the world from the crushing hand of autocratic power and officialism. Have we caught the fever of autocracy in this country, which in running its course will wipe out true Americanism?

BANKS FACING RESPONSIBILITY.

Never before in history have the banks of the world wielded greater power or faced bigger responsibility than they do today.

Before the war, few people really came in contact with banks, the great mass of the people considering them merely for the benefit of the rich. At the beginning of the war there were only about 350,000 investors. Now our billions of dollars of Liberty Bonds are held in the hands of 30,000,000 people, many of whom have thus been brought in close contact with a bank for the first time.

An investor or a bank depositor is not likely to be a Bolshevik. The leading banks of the nation realize that the time is here to get in closer touch with the great mass of the people in order that these people may become acquainted with banking methods and be brought to realize that the safety of the nation including the rich and poor alike, and not merely the funds of the rich, depend upon sound banking institutions. Progressive banks are exerting every effort to teach depositors that banks exist for protection and assistance of any worthy and responsible man or woman and not merely for a selected few.

The war has given socialism and more radical movements an impetus never before thought possible and working people of foreign countries, oppressed for centuries, have gone wild with freedom which they do not understand. In many cases banks have been pillaged, simply because they were supposed to be the deposit vaults of the rich.

American banks are profiting by this object lesson. They are endeavoring to bring the individual laborer and the capitalist together on common ground by having the funds of both in the same bank, thus teaching that the bank is for the protection and assistance of both.

The banks themselves face the great responsibility of educating the people and thereby consolidating their own position with the masses.

There has been a marked increase in the consumption of water, but it isn't consumed by men who reach for the pitcher before they get their pants on.

Teachers of English are wanted at Prague, Bohemia. And probably the Bohemians are willing to pay them more than they are paid in this country.

Star Democrat: The price of steers has fallen off from $20 to $40 a head. Yes, that's what makes beef steak so cheap.

Star-Democrat: Henry Ford may not collect that million from the Chicago Tribune, but there is no doubt that he has earned it.

Oklahoma City Times: There are socialists who view bolshevism with abhorrence but the truth is that socialists and bolsheviks are headed in the same direction, though one faction may travel more rapidly than the other.

Tulsa World: A rumor has been booting about in political circles that E. G. McAdams and the Tulsa suggestion are about to pool their strength. If this happens Senator Gore can figure that he will have two votes against him in the primary.

Oklahoma City Times: In the action of the house of representatives in rejecting amendments to permit the sale of beer of 2 1/4 alcoholic content, the liquor interests can see a further installment of the handwriting on the wall. The ban on liquor will be tightened instead of loosening as time passes, and the brewers might as well convert their plants into ice cream factories.

Tulsa World: The postmaster editors of Oklahoma are unanimously for the league of nations, the treaty with France, the retention of American troops in Russia, for stopping the congressional inquiries into expenditure of public funds and for the enactment of a law prohibiting anyone from criticizing the president or young, against the president if he should run again. In other words the postmaster editors know they are not "sittin' pretty" and are anxious to improve matters if possible.

Ardmore: The chief reason why we have determined to withdraw from the senatorial race in favor of the other 216 Oklahoma democratic editors is that we know the nature of the Washington climate in the summer. It looks as if the senate is going to be in perpetual session. There is only one place hotter than Washington, and according to our religion it is only an imaginary place.

LEADER OF MEN.

Oklahoma City News: Joshua was a slave in the brickyards of Egypt. He was born in the hut of his Jewish slavemaster, but he became the leader of the two million slaves who were swept out of "the house of bondage" into the "promised land."

And here are some of the reasons why he became great.
He sat at the feet of Moses—the great law-giver of Israel—and absorbed something of his spirit and personality. "He had a friend," is the secret of most men's greatness.

Joshua gladly served Moses as one who was greater than he. He had learned the lessons of obedience and humility.
Joshua was dominated by the spirit that comes from God. "Take Joshua * * * a man in whom the spirit of God"—was the command that came to Moses when he selected his successor.

He was confident of victory. When the 12 spies were sent to Canaan they brought back a discouraging report. They declared that the "giants" were too great to be overcome.

"Let us go up at once and possess it," said Joshua and his friend Caleb.

If the Israelites had followed Joshua's advice they might have possessed the land in 40 days instead of wandering in the desert for 40 years.

Joshua had great faith in God—or perhaps it would be more accurate to say that he had faith in a great God. He won that marvelous victory in the city of Jericho when the walls fell down at the blowing of the ram's horns. It was at his request that the sun stood still in the valley of Ajalon.

Joshua honored God. "As for me and my house we will serve the Lord," was his family motto.

Dwight L. Moody, the greatest evangelist of this generation, heard a sermon in Boston when he was a young man, in which the preacher said:

"God is waiting to find a man thru whom He can show the world what He can do with one who stands ready to do His will."
And Moody declared: "I'll be that man."

God needed a Joshua to succeed Moses. He needs someone to succeed Moody—not merely as an evangelist, but in any other vocation in life.

ARMY PRAISED FOR WORK IN MEXICO

EVEN IN SMOKED MEAT REBEL-LION AGAINST VILLA AMERICANS WON LAURELS AND PRAISE.

By News' Special Service

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Official detailed reports on the recent punitive expedition into Juarez to drive out Villa troops, when the battle there threatened lives of Americans in El Paso, give especial praise to the work of both the artillery and the cavalry.

It is said that some of the achievements of the Second battalion of the 82nd Field Artillery under command of Lieutenant Colonel H. L. Newbold were as spectacular as any in the great war when the small nature of the engagement is taken into consideration.

The report says Colonel Newbold had his men and guns in so closely behind the skirmish line that they were ready to fire before the infantry had made contact, and the instant the command to fire was given the shrapnel began sweeping the fence corners and grand stand of the race track, where the Villa troops were, exactly on the target.

Colonel Newbold's batteries got off sixty-four rounds with such speed and accuracy that observers report the action like a performance of the prize gun teams in France which made new records with the French 75's. When the infantry advanced, every point of vantage around the Mexican position was found riddled with steel bullets.

The cavalry comes in for full measure of praise for its rapid movement to cut off the main rebel body while the performance of the engineers in throwing across the Rio Grande in less than an hour, a pontoon bridge capable of bearing the heaviest equipment is reported as having set new records in that line.

"The doughboys" of the infantry of course come in for their usual share of praise which is in no way dimmed by the mention of the success of the engineers, cavalry and artillery.

Use for Waste Lands.

Every state in the union has some part of the swamp and wet lands that for the entire country have an aggregate area of 102,500,000 acres—larger than Iowa, Illinois and Indiana combined and three-fourths as large as France. The agricultural value of these lands varies considerably, but specialists of the United States department of agriculture believe that large areas, if properly drained and cleared by public or private co-operation, could be transformed into productive farms.

Worth More Than That Now.

On June 20, in 1632, the patent of Maryland, granted to George Calvert, Lord Baltimore, was after his death made over to his son, Cecilus Calvert. King Charles signed the new patent and gave to the grant of land the name of Maryland, in honor of his queen, Henrietta Maria. While Lord Baltimore held the grant he paid for it yearly to the crown of England two Indian arrows, which are still on exhibition at Windsor castle, England.

Women Senators of Old.

Rome, as early as the year 218 A. D., recognized a senate of women. This senate, though, differed from most others by confining its considerations and its discussions to matters of etiquette and dress. The assembly had the approbation of Elagabalus and held its meetings in the Quirinal. Cruelty, extravagance and vice were the outstanding characteristics of the reign of Elagabalus. Hence, the necessity of having conferences of the sort.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE REVIVAL

The preacher took another "swat" at Francis last night, as being the place where the Ada dancers are now going.

Many people gathered at the tabernacle as early as seven o'clock last night. By eight o'clock standing room was at a premium.

Last night one of the collection pans was found under the speaker's stand. It had probably been there several days. In the pan was $18.54.

Rev. B. F. Stegall, who is one of the most enthusiastic attendants at the revival, was absent Sunday and Monday in a meeting at Centrahoma.

One girl about fifteen years of age came marching into the tabernacle last night with a jug of cold water in her arm. She realized how warm it was and how thirsty she was going to be.

The children who took part in the program last night assembled at the Methodist church; Mr. Ramsey went there for them at 8:30 o'clock. They marched two abreast and made a line extending from the Harris hotel to the city hall. The girls were all dressed in white.

A collection was taken at the close of the services last night to defray the running expenses of the campaign. Several men gave as much as $25, a larger number gave $10 and the $5 contributions were many. More than a thousand dollars it is said was raised. The running expense of the meeting is estimated at $2,500.

The largest crowd that ever gathered at a religious service in Ada was at the tabernacle last night to see the concert by the children's chorus. Every seat in the building was taken, children sat all over the sawdust floor and almost a thousand people stood in the open spaces around the tabernacle. It is conservatively estimated that there were 5,000 people present.

Dorothy Dalton Has Role of Exceptional Strength in "Extravagance."

The disease of the century is the theme taken by J. Lynch in writing the Thomas H. Ince photoplay, "Extravagance," the Paramount picture in which beautiful Dorothy Dalton will be presented at the Liberty theater today.

This disease he describes as "the craving to seem to be something that one is not," and for his characters he takes the rich and seemingly rich of the New York stock exchange. Dorothy Dalton plays the part of wife of a broker and an associate of millionaires. This gives her opportunity to wear the loveliest gowns and most stunning jewels.

Mr. Marvin Brown,
Editor of The Ada News,
Ada, Oklahoma.

Dear Mr. Brown:

During my eighteen years in evangelistic work, associated with the greatest institutions on earth, the churches, it has been my privilege to see the local newspapers—another institution never fully appreciated—tested more thoroughly during religious awakenings than at any normal times.

I generally find one or all three of the essential characteristics to a successful newspaper sadly lacking.

Ada, however, is to be congratulated in having a man whose ability as a newspaper man only the misinformed could question, and whose courage, if any doubt, let them try to subsidize or intimidate, and they will very promptly and thoroughly be disillusioned.

These, with the right conception, make The Ada News exert a most wholesome influence.

But what I started out to say is this—

Put me on your mailing list, I like to read a paper with a punch.

Yours with appreciation, home of Miss Wanda Brown, in the Collonade apartments, and the Misses Elizabeth Kane, Ruth Bolen, Tot McKendree and Wanda Brown were joint hostesses of the occasion.

A feature of most importance during the party was the playing of a game "I Spy." Articles had been hidden about the room to be found by the guests and when Miss Tunnell cried "I spy a jewel box" she was told to open it and keep the contents which proved to be a pretty ruby ring, a memory gift from her friends.

Dainty refreshments of sandwiches, ice cream sundaes and cold drinks were served.

Being calm under provocation is a heapsight harder than telling others to be.

Ada Playhouses

At the Liberty.
"Extravagance" is one of the most realistic Paramount pictures yet produced. The play is not an allegory, as the title might suggest, but a vivid picture of modern life. Life not as it should be but life as it really is. It isn't the least bit preachy, you know a hundred people just like the chief characters; the moral isn't drawn for you, you will have to do that for yourself and we know you'll like it. Dorothy Dalton plays the leading role.

At the American.
Today is the day of days, for every Wednesday there comes to the American one star who is the favorite of boys and girls, be they big ones or little, for Eddie Polo or Pedro, or Cody as he is sometimes called, always plays the part in the right and has never failed to please. Today he is here in "Cyclone Smith's Comeback," a photoplay taken from the Cyclone Smith stories which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post; then as an educational feature as well as entertaining and interesting, comes the International News, 1,000 feet of news of the latest and most important happenings in all parts of the world, brought to you in reality, and to send you away with a smile one of those every funny Lyons-Moran comedies—all in all a program second to none is showing at the American today.

An Interesting Letter From a Worthy Farmer

One day recently this bank received the following letter from a farmer who has had misfortunes. We consider it worthy of publication. Here it is:

Ada, Oklahoma, July 15, 1919.

Oklahoma State Bank, Ada, Oklahoma.

Gentlemen:

I am writing you this letter with a full knowledge that you are interested in me both as a borrower at your bank and as a friend.

It affords me pleasure to inform you that I am already assured of returns from my farming operations that will more than enable me to pay my note when it is due this fall. My hogs have made me good money, and so have the yearlings you staked me for last fall. Moreover, the alfalfa has done exceedingly well, my corn is good, my wheat and oats are good, and I don't need more than a half crop of cotton to put me in a far better shape than I ever was.

The accommodations you fellows have showed me during the past three years have saved my life. You would have been at perfect liberty, according to law, to have shut down on me two years ago and busted me, but that ain't your way of doing.

I know you will be all-fired glad to hear of my good luck.

Yours truly,

Cases like the above are not uncommon at this bank. When we find a worthy customer we give him to us with the hoops of friendship and stand by him alike in fortune or adversity. Any farmer or business man who is looking for a bank that will answer every summons could do no better than step in at our door and say: "Fellows, I've come to stay."

THE TOWN GOSSIP

By MILTON LESTER

THERE ARE times.
WHEN A person would give.
A LOT of money.
IF HE could have.
CERTAIN PRIVILEGES.
AND I wished.
SOMETHING LIKE that.
YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.
AND I was going home.
AND CAME across.
A COUPLE of kids.
PLAYING OUT in the street.
AND HAVING a good time.
AND A lady was sitting
ON THE porch of a house.
RIGHT CLOSE by.
AND SHE'D been reading.
A MAGAZINE or something.
AND SHE put it down.
AND CALLED out.
"YOU'LL HAVE to come in now, Willie."
AND WILLIE paid.
ABSOLUTELY NO attention.
BUT WENT right on.
WITH HIS playing.
A SECOND time:
"COME IN here, now Willie."
BUT YOU'D a thought

THAT SHE was in Africa.
FOR ALL the attention.
THAT WILLIE paid her.
AND SHE called again.
AND HE was evidently.
GETTING RATHER peeved.
AND HE yelled back:
"I AIN'T going to do it."
AND SHE tried.
TO COAX him along:
"BE A good boy Willie.
AND OBEY your mother."
AND HE hollered:
"YOU SHUT up, I tell you."
AND BY that time.
I HAD passed the house.
AND WAS losing track.
OF THE conversation.
AND I don't know.
HOW IT all ended.
BUT I would have given.
A WHOLE lot.
IF I'D a had the privilege.
OF GETTING after Willie.
WITH A switch.
OR A paddle.
OR SOMETHING.
I THANK you.

Some Cherokee Celebrities

By E. A. MacMillan
But a few years after the removal of the Cherokees to Oklahoma—1842—occurred the murder of Isaac Bushyhead one of the prominent men of the tribe. The killing grew out of a post-election quarrel at Saline Court house. The slayer was not known at the time, but suspicion pointed to a young man named John McIntosh, who was a scion of a prominent Cherokee family. The bushyhead and McIntosh families had long been considered among the leading families of the nation, and oftentimes were rivals for political power. John Mc-Intosh was an unusually promising young man. He was well educated according to the standard of that time, of fine physique, affable and pleasing manners and generally loved by his tribesmen. The killing of Bushyhead produced a profound sensation and threats were freely made relative to his slayer. Young McIntosh dropped out of existence, seemingly. His relatives knew nothing of his whereabouts and after a time believed him dead—the victim, no doubt, of an assassin.

Quite a number of years later, Judge Geo. W. Paschal one of the most noted lawyers of the southwest was sojourning in Coahuila, Mexico, and hearing the natives speak of Dr. Cherokee, sought an interview with him. He had learned that he was one of the wealthiest men of Mexico. He owned thousands and thousands of acres of land; his cattle ranged for miles and miles over the hills and mountain sides and in all the financial activities of the state he was easily the most prominent character. He was a power politically and no man could assume to be the executive head of the state without his sanction. His hacienda was the rendezvous of all the prominent characters of the northern part of the republic. He also learned that Cherokee citizens of the Indian Territory were always welcome and that it was too often the rendezvous of those who had found it necessary to go on the scout from the Indian country.

Judge Paschal visited Dr. Cherokee and was impressed with the appearance of the man. That he was not a Mexican was admitted by Dr.
Cherokee and that he was a Cherokee by blood was established. Later citizens of the Cherokee Nation visited him and to them he did not deny that he was John McIntosh suspected as having been the slayer of Isaac Bushyhead.

Citizens now living state that the killing of Bushyhead was accidental. McIntosh realizing his danger and fearing the assassin's bullet left his native haunts and went to Mexico. He entered into Mexican life with energy. His vigor of youth, education and prepossessing appearance won him a place in the confidence of the Mexicans and prosperity followed.

A few years after his arrival there he became enamored with the charms of a senorita and marrying, settled down to spend the remaining years of his life among them. His past was a closed book.

Dr. Cherokee told the story of his life to Judge Paschal.

Judge George W. Paschal, whose descendants still reside in Oklahoma, was a man of unusual legal attainments. He married Nancy Ridge, daughter of Major Ridge, and a cousin of General Stand White. The Ridge family have figured largely in Cherokee history and have always been considered of unusual mental standing. He moved from Georgia to Arkansas where he became judge of the Supreme Court and later moved to Texas where he held a similar position in the Lone Star state. His daughter married Daniel O'Connell who for many years was a member of Parliament and a prominent citizen of the British empire. His son, Hon.

George Paschal holds the unique distinction of having been first Chancellor of the Catholic University at Washington, although he was an active and earnest Baptist.

Rev. Ham Gives a Great Talk On Profit and Loss

At the introductory to Prof.
Ramsay's wonderful young people's chorus performance last evening at the tabernacle, Evangelist Ham had time for a brief sermon and took full advantage of the time that was open for that purpose to deliver a most appealing message,
using these words for a text:
"What shall it profit a man though he gain the whole world and loose his own soul?" He began:

"The people who roamed these broad stretches of Oklahoma country in one era of its development saw only the tracks of deer and other game for they were hunters.
The cattle man came and saw wide expanses of grazing land. Town builders then came and saw vast possibilities in lines of industry.
Geologists have come and found oil
and minerals of tremendous value.
Sometimes things of unmeasured value lie all about us when we dream of all we possess will vanish and our bodies will fall into decay. Then those who have given attention to the material only will be most miserable. Men who attended to matters of the soul in time are wise both for time and for eternity. Moses rejected honors and glory in Egypt, but he is now more famous than any of Egypt's kings. Indeed he who cares first for the things of the spirit is more famous than Napoleon, Alexander or Caesar.

"My friends, except you become twice born your bodies will fall into dust and return to the earth
as before, but your spirits will go down to hell. Yet you people barter your souls for honor, pleasure, and riches. You buy dearly a few years of fanciful pleasure when you buy it at the cost of your soul.

Joy of a low sort is foolishly acquired in the place of eternal joy in heaven at the right hand of God, the Father. Gain the world's honors, its riches and pleasures at the cost of your immortal soul and you have struck a bad bargain indeed. Riches, honors and pleasures may vanish like the mist of the morning. You are like a bird that flies over the city and spies out dead carcasses only when an angel would see gardens of loveliness and beautiful children at play.
"I have seen my little girl break a simple toy and cry as if her heart would break. Some of you have also broken toys and whined like whipped children. Some of you have exchanged eternal life for a bubble called worldly pleasure, the dance, or the card table, and you have whined when your toy was broken. Listen to me; pleasures, riches and honors disappoint in the end. Some of you men are going to hell to buy a home in which to die.
Some of you are damming your souls to lay up a little money, and your wife's second husband will smoke two bit cigars at your expense when you are in hell.

"The things of the flesh never satisfy. No man ever got enough honor, enough money, or enough fun and frolic. It is true that the lust for pleasure drags people away from God and hope. I knew of a girl dying alone at the end of a life of shame, because she ran away from home to get rid of family restrictions that curtailed her pleasures. She got enough, now, didn't she? They buried her in an unmarked grave. Misery, anguish, and discontent always come to a soul trying to feed on chaff. Brother, how much will you take to trade your innocent little girl off for a low lived harlot? Sister, how much will you take to trade your son off for that drunkard in the gutter?

"Some of you are going down grade and one of these days you will decide to give all you have for life eternal, but your decision may come too late. What shall it profit a man though he gain the whole world and lose his own soul."

they are long-distance runners.

This Miller feat of producing Uniform Tires is much discussed. Of course it requires the choicest must be trained to build alike.

That is what the Miller factory has accomplished. And that is why we feature Miller Tires. By giving you excep-

WHY PICK OUT ICE MAN TO VENT SPLEEN ON?

Because the increased cost of labor and materials makes such a procedure necessary the ice men have raised the price of ice. They raised a howl of protest at the same time.

We wonder why this hail of protest should rain down on the ice man's head alone?

Why make the ice men the goat? Gasoline has trickled up in price from nine to twenty-four and a half cents.

Beef has shot up from fifteen to forty and fifty cents.

Former six dollar shoes now cost from $12 to $20.

The price of milk has ascended steadily.

Cigars and cigarettes have responded to the upward trend.

Then why pick out the ice man as the sole center and circumference of attack?

He pays his labor more. He pays more for his materials. Why then is he accused of breaking this or that anti-trust law because he does what hundreds of other sellers have done without raising a ripple of protest?

If the ice man is to be attacked why not the shoe manufacturer?

Why not the seller of milk?

The man who sells ice is not a chameleon.

He can't live on air.

He has to pay increased cost for shoes and clothes and milk and meat for himself and his family.

If the other raises are alright, why is the ice raise wrong?—Dallas Times Herald.

A MEMPHIS PAPER ON TULSA'S JAZZ PREACHER

While almost all of the preachers are denouncing jazz music and dancing, they are speaking to audiences that are of the same opinion almost unanimously. Very few if any of those who are devotees of the new and weird forms of dancing are in the churches to hear these denunciations. As a rule they are somewhere else jazzing. What the ministers of the gospel have to say never reaches the jazz enthusiasts except it be in a passing glance at the newspaper headlines. It is hardly to be believed that the ardent devotees read more than the lines newspaper editors write over these sermons in order to advertise them to the general public.

The Rev. Harold C. Cooke, pastor of the Tipton Memorial Church at Tulsa, Okla., realized that both he and his brother ministers were carrying coals to Newcastle in their anti-jazz sermons delivered to audiences who were already of the same firm conviction. The Oklahoma minister further became convinced that in competition with the new dancing craze he was losing ground. He decided then to beat the opposition by the employment of his own means of attraction. Rev. Cooke announced recently that ice-cold lemonade would be served at all of the summer services and that jazz music would be provided in abundance. At the installation of his new service an actor from one of the theatres gave assistance. The reports from Tulsa are that the empty seats in the church are rapidly being filled.

There is hardly a doubt but that the sermons delivered in this church reach ears that have never been reached before. What effect they may have is, of course, problematical, but it is certain that they will do no harm to those who hear them. A great many churches will probably consider such a course to be a lowering of their moral standards and at the same time an ineffective measure of salvation. They will prefer to elevate people to higher things instead of leading them to truth from the same stratum. The Tulsa minister has adopted the latter course and his experiment will at least bear watch ing.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

SEVEN YEARS ON A PEANUT STAND

Andrew Carnegie used to advise young men to get into business for themselves, even if it was in the peanut business. If this was good advice in the old days, it is better advice now, as invention has made the peanut business a good one, considering the ability needed to carry it on.

Ada has a man who heeded Mr. Carnegie's advice and began selling peanuts eight years ago in the State of Washington. The man is W. C. Padgett, whose peanut wagon stands on North Broadway, by the side of the Guaranty State Bank. He came to Ada seven years ago.

Mr. Padgett estimates that he has sold since he went into this business no less than 8,000,000 peanuts. He also sells popcorn and states that he averages about $60 weekly with the two products combined. Each sack of peanuts contains 30 peanuts. He has a "cracking" good business even if his business is a sort of shell game. He makes a good honest living at it. He says he intends to continue to sell peanuts the rest of his days.

TERRIBLY SWOLLEN

Suffering Described As Torture
Relieved by Black-Draught.

Rossville, Ga.—Mrs. Kate Lee Able, of this place, writes: "My husband is an engineer, and once while lifting, he injured himself with a piece of heavy machinery, across the abdomen. He was so sore he could not bear to press on himself at all, on chest or abdomen. He weighed 165 lbs., and fell off until he weighed 110 lbs., in two weeks.

He became constipated and it looked like he would die. We had three different doctors, yet with all their medicine, his bowels failed to act. He would turn up a ten-cent bottle of castor oil, and drink it two or three days in succession. He did this yet without result. We became desperate, he suffered so. He was swollen terribly. He told me his suffering could only be described as torture.

I sent and bought Thedford's Black-Draught. I made him take a big dose, and when it began to act he fainted, he was in such misery, but he got relief and began to mend at once. He got well, and we both feel he owes his life to Thedford's Black-Draught."

Thedford's Black-Draught will help you to keep fit, ready for the day's work. Try it!

PREACHER HUBS STUMP ON ACCOUNT HIS VIEWS

By the Associated Press

SPOKANE, Wash., July 30.—Because he expressed the opinion that soldiers killed in battle go direct to the realms of the blest, an Inland Empire pastor has fallen foul of his church administration and is asked to resign. The incident has created widespread controversy and the weight of the preacher's congregation is with him.

The storm centers about the devoted head of Rev. W. Baldwin, of the First Presbyterian Church Yakima, formerly of Idaho Falls, Idaho.

The offending remarks included a statement of belief that soldiers who gave their lives in battle will not suffer damnation, though they died without being affiliated with any church. It is said the pastor, who married a cousin of President McKinley at one time was noted as an orator in England.

At a meeting of the central Washington presbytery held subsequent to the offending pulpit utterance, Pastor Baldwin was asked to resign immediately. He is past middle age, feels that a change of employment is a difficult problem at his years, but fears that when his pastorate at Yakima is finished he will be unable to secure another owing to the attitude of the presbytery.

THREE DIVORCES FILED LAST NIGHT

Elmira Black, negress, has sued her husband, Dick Black, for divorce. She says he beat her, cursed her, abused her, robbed her and otherwise mistreated her so that she cannot live with him. They have two children and she asks for them. E. S. Ratliff is her lawyer.

Della M. Alexander sues her husband, J. S. Alexander, for divorce. They were married June 10, 1917, at Lula. She claims he was cruel, vile, threatened to whip her and was accompanied home by Miss Mabel McKeel, who will pay them and other relatives in Honey Grove an extended visit.

German Frightfulness Nothing Compared With That of Turks Says White

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 30.—Charges that Turkish officials decimated the Greek population along the Black Sea Coast, 250,000 men, women and children living between Sinope and Ordu without the shedding of blood but by "parboiling the victims in Turkish baths," and turning them half clad out to die of pneumonia or other ills in the snow of an Anatolian winter, are made in a letter from Dr. George E. White, representative of the American Committee for Relief in the Near East, made public here today.

Sinope was the birthplace of the philosopher Diogenes, Dr. White recalls, and Ordu is just beyond Cape Jason which is still preserved in memory of the Argonauts and the Golden Fleece. The letter, written to Professor J. P. Xenides, secretary of the Greek Relief Committee here, described the new method of ridding the land of its inhabitants which, it said, was somewhat different from that employed by the Turks against the Armenians.

The worst of the crimes laid to the Turks, according to Dr. White, amount of $5,000 and she asks that he be ordered by the court not to dispose of this. She is represented by W. A. Delaney, Jr., of Allen.

The third divorce proceedings filed last night was that of Ians H. Harris, against his wife, Hattie Harris. Mr. Harris claims that they were married July 21, 1917. Of the union, one child was born, Paul Harris, and he seeks the custody of the child. The Harris' were married at Stratford. Mr. Harris states that his wife cursed him, accused him of keeping company with other women which he denies, says she would not keep his house in order. He says he did everything possible to make her happy but that she left him and went elsewhere to live. He is represented by Attorney Edward J. Walker.

BIG HOLSTEIN CATTLE SALE HERE TOMORROW

Thursday at 1 p. m. one of the greatest auction sales of high grade cattle ever staged in the southwest will take place in Ada when R. L. McGuyre offers his entire Holstein dairy herd for sale to the highest bidders. Among the lot are some of the best milkers of this breed in the United States, and some young cows and heifers which bid fair to exceed even the splendid records set by their dams.

The entire offering includes all ages from young calves up to milk cows that are in their prime, and Mr. McGuyre's famous herd bull, Sir Hengerveld Segis 211735; also a number of young bulls of choicest breeding.

Mr. McGuyre is selling out his herd on account of his health, it being necessary for him to quit business and recuperate. He does not contemplate leaving Ada.

The sale starts at 1 p. m. tomorrow on West 12th street, and will be conducted by able auctioneers.

Mrs. M. A. Pope and daughter, Miss Grace, of Honey Grove, Texas, returned to their home this morning after a visit to the former's sister, Mrs. A. W. McKeel and family. They were accompanied home by Miss Mabel McKeel, who will pay them and other relatives in Honey Grove an extended visit.

Taking It Up Direct.
Dealer—That old woman brought more eggs to market today and I told her the ones she brought last week were bad.
Clerk—What did she say?
Dealer—Said next Saturday she would bring her hens and I could speak to them about it personally.

Reform.
"He's a modern reformer."
"That so?"
"Yes, he's out to reform the reformers."

"In what way?"
"He's trying to educate them to discover that not everything the other fellow gets some fun out of is wholly wrong."

Explanation.
"How do you account for comets and meteors?" inquired the girl who wanted to seem scientific.
"Now and then," replied the professor who wanted to seem frivolous, "the music of the spheres attempts a little jazz."

Dear Simplicity.
"Why don't those grand opera stars accumulate more money?"
"Their expenses are heavy."
"Eh?"
"I've seen one wearing a milkmaid's costume that must have cost two thousand bones."

An Alibi.
The Boss—I am sorry, sir, but I find we won't be able to give you a job. You seem to be very deficient in arithmetic.
The Applicant—I knew it! I knew it! It's pa's fault. I told him he had no business to send me to a grammar school.

SUSPECTED IT.
"The people in the flat below bought their piano at auction."
"I suspected as much; it's going, going, going all the time."

Realism.
I much prefer the realist.
Who foils and doesn't shrink.
To the benign idealist.
Who thinks and doesn't work.

Adaptability.
"Have you ever thought of organizing in this prison an emergency corps from the pickpockets?"
"No, but why especially of them?"
"Because they are a class notoriously good at a pinch."

No Security.
The Clothing Salesman—Here's a nice feature, a change pocket with a button to prevent losses.
Mr. Longsufferer—Haven't you one with a combination lock? My wife knows how to unfasten a button.

Elucidation.
"Say, Mamie, you've been in business; tell me what's a preferred creditor?"
"A preferred creditor, Maggie, is one that don't dun you to pay your bills."

Its Kind.
"The what-to-have-for dinner discussion I had with my wife—"
"Well, what of it?"
"Was in the nature of a joint debate."

High Cost of Cooking.
"How much do you pay a cook?"
"The wages don't figure to so much," replied Mr. Crosslots. "The real expense comes in bribing one to leave a neighbor."

Feminine Logic.
He—Give a reason for anything you believe. Now, why do you think 13 is an unlucky number?
She—Because it brings you bad luck.

In Suspense.
"Patched up peace with your wife as yet?"
"Not quite. My ma-in-law, my wife and her two sisters are discussing the terms."

One Way or the Other.
"Meat is terribly dear! Meat 50 cents a pound!"
"But think how cheap money is, with a 50-cent piece worth only a pound of meat!"

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(Copyright, 1919, Western Newspaper Union)

LESSON FOR AUGUST 3

CHRISTIAN WORSHIP.

LESSON TEXTS—Rev. 7:9-12; John 4:10, 19-24; Mat. 6:5, 6; Heb. 10:19-25.

GOLDEN TEXT—God is a spirit, and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth.—John 4:24.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Mat. 4:10; Psalms 84 and 122.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Children praising God (Mat. 21:15, 16).

JUNIOR TOPIC—Worship in God's house (Luke 2:41-50).

INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—Why worship and how.

SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—The nature and value of true worship.

1. What Is Worship? (Rev. 7:12).

It is the attitude of the soul toward God, which recognizes him as the Supreme Being of the universe and benevolently inclined toward his creatures. It is the outgoing of the affections toward him and the ascription of praise and adoration to him as the one from whom all blessings come, the one to whom all glory and honor should be given, the one who is all-wise and powerful.

II. Whom to Worship (Rev. 7:10-12).

1. God (vv. 11, 12, cf. Matt. 4:10). Since in him we live, move and have our being (Acts 17:28), and from him every good and perfect gift cometh (James 1:17), we should worship and adore him.

2. Jesus Christ the Lamb (v. 10). We should worship him because he is God and because he, in the incarnation, linked himself with humanity and on the cross made an atonement for us and is now our high priest, through whom we have access to God (Heb. 10:21).

III. Qualifications for Acceptable Worship (John 4:1-10, 19-24).

This is a fine example of personal evangelism. Christ "must needs go through Samaria" to find this poor, sinful woman. He skillfully disclosed his identity to her. He knew the deep need of her soul, even the inward unrest which was hers while practicing sin. He made the point of contact by that which was uppermost in her mind, namely, water, and passed from the water of earthly to the water of everlasting life which was in himself (v. 10). In order to worship God acceptably there must be—

1. Knowledge of Christ (v. 10). Must know him as a prophet from God (v. 19)—the one sent of God (Acts 7:37, cf. Deut. 18:15) to make known to lost men the way to God. Must know him as the Messiah—the one anointed of God to save lost men (John 4:42).

2. A new nature (vv. 23, 24). Only the regenerated can worship God in spirit. Jesus declared "that which is born of the flesh is flesh, and that which is born of the spirit is spirit" (John 3:6). "Except a man be born from above, he cannot see the kingdom of God" (John 3:3). The natural man has not the capacity to "see" God, therefore he cannot worship him. God is spirit, therefore only the one whose spirit has been quickened can enter into fellowship with him in worship.

3. A sanctified life (Heb. 10:22). The life is sanctified by the Spirit 1 Peter 1:2; through obedience to the Word of God (John 17:17).

4. Faith in God (Heb. 11:6, cf. 10:22). Pretended worship without vitalized faith is an abomination to God.

5. Men of every nation and kindred (Rev. 7:9). God is the God of all nations.

IV. Where to Worship.

1. In secret (Matt. 6:5, 6). The soul shut up with God, with the world and its cares shut out, really worships. Every Christian ought to have a secret chamber.

2. In the assembly (Heb. 10:24, 25). While the private prayer is of first importance, there is value in joint worship with fellow Christians which should not be overlooked. The actions of others are helpful in conducting a frame of mind for worship.

3. Everywhere (John 4:20-24). God is the Omnipresent Spirit, therefore wherever there is a person whose nature is spiritual he can worship. Christianity is unlike every other religion in that without ritual or temple the individual may worship God anywhere. John as truly worshiped God in Patmos as in the assembly at Ephesus, or Paul in the Roman prison as well as with the beloved saints at Philippi.

To Those Who Seek.

It profits little to know Christ himself after the flesh; but he gives his spirit to good men that searcheth the deep things of God.—John Smith.

How Can One Forget?

God living in us, and with us, and under us! How then can a man forget God?

The True Christian.

He that can apprehend and consider vice with all her baits and seeming pleasures, and yet abstain, and yet distinguish, and yet prefer that which is truly better, he is the true wayfarer Christian.—John Milton.

Finds More of God.

The deeper one digs in nature the more of God he finds.

Beauty Made by God.

How much more beauty God has made than human eyes can see.

CAN'T GET CHAUNCEY FOR CONFEDERATE REUNION

The Confederate Veterans had hoped to secure Charles Chauncey for aeroplane flight each day during their state reunion to be held here August 26-7-8, but it seems that they are in for a disappointment so far as that part of the program is concerned.

Hon. Tom D. McKeown took the matter up with the war department for the veterans, but they have refused to grant the request. A copy of the letter refusing the request, addressed to Mr. McKeown and sent by him to Commander Fisher, of this city, is published herewith.

"July 24, 1919.

"My Dear Mr. McKeown.

"Receipt is acknowledged of your courteous letter of recent date requesting that Lt. Chauncey be permitted to fly an airplane for three days during the State Reunion of the U. C. V., August 26th, 27th and 28th.

"While your efforts in this matter are appreciated in view of the purpose for which this flight is desired, I regret to inform you that owing to the unfavorable circumstances at present confronting our organization it will be impossible for the Air Service to furnish the desired serial demonstration upon the dates requested.

"Many accidents and a number of fatalities occurred as a result of airplane exhibitions given during the Fourth of July holidays, and these together with the present border situation will not permit us to arrange for any more flights of this sort.

"Numerous requests have been received and granted as far as possible with the limited men at hand, for exhibitions to be given at different periods extending over the next few months. For this reason, we have not the facilities for granting any more extensive additions have been made to our personnel through the recruiting campaign which is now being conducted.

"The Air Service has already obligated itself to such an extent for the entire summer in the way of airplane exhibitions, that it is impossible to assume further obligations of this sort involving its personnel and planes.

"Very sincerely,

C. T. MENOHER,

Major General.
